

Appeal

Thank You

Thank you for your submission. The appeal process serves to ensure students with an impartial review of decisions made within the student conduct process. The burden is on the appealing party to make a compelling case that the disciplinary decision was not fundamentally fair.

Appeals are typically reviewed the first week of each month by the University Appeals Board. Results are mailed to the student, at the address in ZZUSIS, so be sure your mailing address is up to date. Go to ZZUSIS now to check your mailing address preferences.

Appeal of: Conduct Board Decision

I have read and understand the requirements for filing an appeal, WAC 504-26-407.: Yes

Are you alleging that a procedural error took place?: no

Explanation of Procedural Error: N/A

Are you offering new information?: no

Explanation of New Information: N/A

Are you alleging that there was not enough evidence to justify the decision?: no

Explanation of Not Enough Evidence: N/A

Are you alleging a sanction was too severe or inappropriate for the violation?: yes

Explanation of Sanctions too Severe: This is too severe a punishment for a first time offense. The fact that the disciplinary action will remain on my WSU record for seven years is too severe a punishment. I am currently attending Counseling sessions from WSU Counseling Service, since I am under emotional stress as well. I do have a conduct letter from my research advisor and professor Dr. Diane Cook which would present my conduct. I plan to send the additional documents to standards@wsu.edu and would request them to make it available to the University Appeals Board.
